Norcross, 18, of Manchester, New Hampshire, killed during World War II, was accounted for on June 12, 2025. In the spring of 1945, Norcross was assigned to Marine Torpedo Bombing Squadron, 232 Marine Air Group 45, 4th Marine Air Wing, Air Defense Command on Ulithi in the Caroline Islands of the western Pacific Ocean. On. March 16, he was the radio gunner on a TBM-3 Avenger aircraft. During a glide bombing attack on Yap Airfield, the aircraft crashed on Yap Island in what is the modern-day Federated States of Micronesia. The crew, including Norcross, did not survive the crash.
